The Log Cabin Republicans of Greater St. Louis is pleased to announce the success of our September 8, 2005 meeting featuring Republican Missouri State Representative Jane Cunningham. "By addressing the Log Cabin Republicans of Greater St. Louis, Representative Cunningham has demonstrated a true desire to represent all citizens of the state of Missouri in a fair and equitable manner," said Charles Stadlander, President of the Log Cabin Republicans of Greater St. Louis.

We applaud Representative Cunningham for her service to the citizens of Missouri. As Chairman of the Missouri House of Representatives Education Committee, Representative Cunningham has developed a record of relentless dedication to the students of this state. Representative Cunningham offered an open mind and intellectually honest solutions to many of the problems facing Missouri in education, Medicaid, taxes, and discrimination.

"Although we may not agree with every policy initiative an elected official puts forth, the Representative's proposal to allow all non-curriculum based student organizations to be classified as community groups with full and equal access to school and public property as a means of reducing civil liability of school districts, is a logical and creative solution to discrimination which must be explored," concluded Stadlander.
